Context

Dear Readers,

Context is one of those words which cause me to pay attention. I have been re-reading David Allen's book "Getting Things Done" (well worth the read!). In his book he talks about context. In my first read of the material I don't think I grasped his concept of context. It's making more sense now. Context is the place where you are. It is about what you are able to do in the place where you are.

I think it also is a word that prompts me (and you too, hopefully) to think about where we are. What is our context? Where are you right now? It might not even be about place. It might be about where you are in your life, or your career, or your emotional status...all of that can be our context. What if? ...here comes the question worth pondering: "What if we are right in the place where God can use us best?" What if we open ourselves up to God using us as we are and where we are? What might happen? I wonder...if we might really get things done.

Blessings,
