Humble

Dear Readers,

Charles Fowler said: "The best teachers of humanity are the lives of great men." The first time I read that quote I thought it said "humility" rather than "humanity." Perhaps those two concepts are tied together.

Our nation was built on humble people who called forth the best of their humanity. With God we see that our humanity is most true when we are humble enough to see that we need the Creator. When we get it that it isn't about us, but it is about God perhaps then we are starting to truly get it. It is in such a posture that we are one with and welcome "the tired masses yearning to breathe free."

Blessings,
