Graduation

Dear Readers,

Jonathan Swift said: "Vision is the art of seeing things invisible." Now that would make a good graduation speech. Recently I had the joy of attending graduation at the University of South Dakota. It was a three hour opportunity where I wish the speaker had inspired vision in the graduates and those attending.

Each day of our lives is a graduation into that which is next. God grants the ability for us to have vision and see the way forward even when the way feels invisible. The Holy Spirit is with us guarding and guiding the way as we commence through each step along life's way. May you be blessed with vision!

Blessings,
